

Questionnaire regarding their experiences and attitudes towards the use of e-learning and their learning of clinical skills.

Gormley, G. J., Collins, K., Boohan, M., Bickle, I. C., & Stevenson, M. (2009). Is there a place for e-learning in clinical skills? A survey of undergraduate medical students' experiences and attitudes. Medical teacher, 31(1), e6-e12.

18 Items

Dimensions are not defined

Overall e-learning is useful in my learning of clinical skills
I feel that e-learning encourages me to examine real patients
I review e-learning material prior to my teaching sessions
E-learning encourages me to attend clinical attachments
I find e-learning useful for my assessment preparation in clinical skills
E-learning improves standardization of teaching
E-learning encourages me to purchase textbooks

I find the following media useful in my learning of clinical skills:

Descriptive text
Images
Discussion boards
Demonstration videos
Online assessment
Clinical skill check lists
Moderated hyperlinks

I find the following media useful in my learning of clinical skills:

e-learning
Use of simulated patients
Hospital attachments
Mannequins and simulated models
Community attachments
Clinical skills laboratory
Text books

5-point Likert Scale (1=Strongly disagree to 5=Strongly agree).

Cronbachs α : na