Feedback sessions
- These contain 2 parallel sessions with each 3 presenters, who will have 20 min. each to discuss their work.
- Presenters: Please prepare one A4 hand-out to share with your audience as a basis for feedback and further discussion. On this handout, you may include a short abstract of the study, its methods, and any questions that you would like to offer for feedback. Feel free to start your presentation with a short (5 min.) introduction to your study and questions.

"Tool Time"
- This constitutes 2 parallel sessions, which will introduce one software tool each that can be used to in the context of social network analysis. In preparing for these sessions, you might want to consider to download the applicable tools and or packages
    - i. Gephi
    - ii. R (plus packages statnet and ndtv)

Paper sessions
- These contain 2 parallel sessions with each 4 presenters, who will also have 20 min. each to present their work.
- Presenters: There will be a projector and laptop available in the room. Please be sure to bring your presentation on a USB-drive (you are of course also more than welcome to bring your own device). There will be 15 min. time for each presentation and 5 min. for discussion.
- Paper sessions will be timed according to the schedule so that people may switch rooms between the presentations.

Panel Discussion
- Here we will (critically) reflect about what we are actually doing and whether and to what extend social network analysis really does capture the aspects of Bildung, which we set out to analyze.

Topic Café
One of the reasons for meeting up and attending the workshop is to meet (new) colleagues, to network and to discuss opportunities for (future) collaboration. In order to foster this, we will guide you to meet like-minded people during the Topic Café and already start brainstorming about specific joint-activities (e.g. research activities, conference papers, etc). We will provide computers and etherpads to immediately formalize what has been discussed and to easily pick-up where you have left, once you have returned to your regular working environments.
